Eleanor Wilson Quoted the 97th Psalm, as she took command of the missionary ship, Morning Star VI, four years after World War II. She was the last American woman out of the Marshall and Caroline Islands at the war's start, and the first to return after the end. She studied navigation herself and learned from a Navy airman how to plot a course. Then she sailed dangerous waters, teaching and preaching on atolls. Today at 68, she still sails the Pacific.

"We have seen the enduring evidence of the Morning Star missionaries," wrote Admiral Nimitz, during the war. "They have planted the seed of faith which the cruel strain of enemy conquest could not wither." Eleanor Wilson is one of the nearly 5000 mission-

South Africa Fight Shows World Issues

Difference Between Internal, External Affairs Is Murky

BY DAVID LAWRENCE WASHINGTON - What is "ex ternal and what is "internal" in world affairs today? The is having trouble defining the difference and so is the British Commonwealth con-

British Commonwealth nations are demanding that South Africa be excluded from that group because of its policy which requires "separation" in certain areas for the whites and the na tive blacks, though not for the ' coloreds

The other day the security council of the UN voted to hold a debate on Portugal's adminis tration of Angola, a Portuguese province in Africa-plainly an in

But the U N itself on the oth er hand, apparently does not have the gumption to vote to in quire into the manner in which Hungary and the other satellites in Fastern Europe are being dominated by the Soviets, whose troops occupy many areas and intimidate the local governments

Perhaps the most interesting of the new intrusions into internal affairs is the attitude of the British Commonwealth nations toward the request of South Africa that its forthcoming change to a republic should not invali date its status in the common

No Conditions

Actually there is no constitu tion or written agrement or char ter stating the conditions of mem bership in the British Common wealth conference. It has devel oped into a sort of international club which cannot even be called a federation When Canada Aus tralia, New Zealand and South Africa became independent they utilized the term British Commonwealth' as a more or less sentimental tie When India a former British colony became a republic in 1949 it asked to be permitted to remain in the commonwealth

Up to that time the king or queen of Great Britain had been recognized as the monarch but with the coming of the republic India suggested that the king or queen hereafter be recognied as the head of the commonwealth

Turning Point

But now Ghana India Ceylon and other former British colonies are trying to punish South Africa for its racial policies and lately the press dispatches have told of the opposition that has been expressed in London to the reten tion of South Africa in the commonwealth "

This represents an important turning point. For obviously action based on what the South African government does with respect to its internal administration could become a precedent for interfer ence by the "commonwealth" in the internal affairs of Malaya or Cevlon or other countries

So far as South Africa is concern ed it is watching to see whether western countries in the "common wealth" are going to care more for the friendship of Ghana for example, than for the friendship of a member of the group which has over the years assisted so materially both in a military and an economic sense, in forwarding the fortunes of Great Britain

Difference In Attitude

There is a conspicuous inconsist ency moreover, in the attitude which is being taken inside India and Ghana, as well as in Great Britain, toward South Africa as compared with the policies of those same countries toward Communist China After all, South Africa has not conducted aggression against any other country, while Red Chi na was responsible for the loss of tens of thousands of lives in the Korean war Also, inside Red Chi na the 'communes' which have been established actually separate parents from children and consti tute a tyranny which defenders of human rights in Britain, India and Ghana seem to be ignoring

Indeed, the same people who want to punish South Africa because they don't like its internal policies are saying that the United Nations should admit Red China and disregard not only the past record in the Korean war but also what is being done inside China [[today to crush human freedom

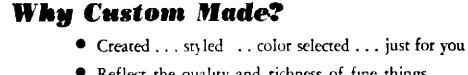

Surely there are paradoxes galore in world affairs nowadays and not a little of the momentum behind the effort to seek to discredit South Africa for its racial policies is the belief that this will help to keep the new African countries from nestling in the arms of the Soviet union Internal controversies affecting human rights are, of course, a matter of worldwide concern, but they can be considered domestic problems unless and until they reach out to affect international

Hopes for Increase

"We are going to try to increase this by at least 10 per cent," Kennedy said.

The Fresident announced the Export-Import bank is authorizing a $25 million credit for the government of Israel. He said Israel will purchase agricultural machinery, electrical power equipment and construction items in this country.

"This decision, I think, will help speed the development of Israel's economy," Kennedy said.

A president's conference on heart disease and cancer will be held at the White House starting April 22. Announcing this, Kenne dy said distinguished medical leaders from all sections of the country will participate.

Martin has contended that the government should try to find some way to reduce what has been regarded in some quarters as a sort of structural or built-in unemployment, prevailing even in good times.

"I do not think," Kennedy said. "that regardless of whether the unemployment we now have is structural or not - and some of it is structural and some of it is not — I do not believe we should accept the present rate of unemployment as a percentage we should live with. . .I hope that we can reduce it down to 4 per cent ...

Unemployment is now calculated by the government as 6.8 per cent of the working force.

Prior Censorship

A powerful effort is being made to get a rehearing before the United States Supreme Court on the 5 to 4 decision which held that city and state censors had the right to see a movie before permitting it to be shown in theaters. A film company which handles foreign movies refused to submit its films to the Chicago police department for examination. The police then refused a permit to show the pictures and the company brought suit asking a court order that the permit be granted.

When the case reached the Supreme Court the city was upheld but the four dissenting justices declared that this prior censorship infringed the constitutional guarantees of free speech. The rule of freedom from prior restraints on expressions is the very heart of our constitutional guarantee of freedom of the press. This freedom was won in England long before the American Constitution was written. However, the American Constitution in the First Amendment attempted to make this right secure. That provision of the Constitution reads:

Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion or prohibiting the free exercise thereof; or abridging the freedom of speech or of the press; or the right of the people peaceably to assemble and to petition the government for a redress of grievances.

Chief Justice Warren supported by Justice Black, Justice Douglas and Justice Brennan in his dissent, said:

I cannot agree with either the conclusion reached by the court or with the reason advanced for its support. To me, this case represents the question of our approval of unlimited censorship of motion pictures before exhibition through a system of administrative licensing. Moreover, the decision presents a real danger to eventual censorship for every form of communication be it newspapers, journals, books, magazines, television, radio or public speeches.

The Motion Picture Association, National Association of Broadcasters, the American Book Publishers Council and the Authors League have filed briefs as friends of the court asking a rehearing of the case. Recently the Board of Directors of the American Society of Newspaper Editors authorized its counsel to join in this request. The newspaper editors recognize that prior restraint is here applied only to the showing of a motion picture but if it should become a rule of the court it could be applied to all forms of publication including newspapers. Quite obviously prior restraint of a newspaper would, in the hands of its enemies or opponents, mean the end of the newspaper. The same rule applied to public utterances would mean the end of free speech. Long before this case came into existence the danger of censorship was recognized in a statement issued by the Catholic bishops of the United States at the close of their annual meeting in 1957. That statement said in

. . Freedom of the press is patently a key safeguard of civil liberty, democracy does not exist without it. The day free expression of opinion is extinguished and all are constrained to fall into a single pattern of political thought and action, democracy

As indispensable as is freedom of expression to us as citizens it is no less indispensable to the church in carrying out her mission to preach the gospel.

The appeal is not undertaken to win the right to show indecent motion pictures without any restraint. It is merely the right to show them once to the public and at that showing the censors may see them. The great advantage to the public is that it sees what is being censored and has therefore some opinion about it. The right to censor is recognized but it must have its basis in law and the exhibitor is always privileged to take his case to court for final decision. This right is basic to genuine freedom of expression.

The Snail's Pace

One of the perennially curious aspects of state government administration is the tediously slow pace of constructing the institutional buildings that the legislature has periodically authorized during the last two decades. Currently there is a considerable to-do in the state welfare department about dangerous over-population at the major correctional institutions, the reformatory and the state prison. There is a new state prison being built in Dodge county, but if the precedents in this department are useful, it may be three or four years before it affords any space relief to the existing prisons.

In 1955 the legislature authorized the construction of a new institution for delinguent boys in Sheboygan county. Six years later it is far from completion. There were some unavoidable delays along the way, but even in a most charitable interpretation, this is a pace that would merit the dismissal of any construction superintendent in private enterprise.

One difficulty in putting into action the mandates of the legislature is that some agencies, even after years of legislative appeals, don't seem to have any more than nebulous ideas of what they want to build for the money they have obtained. Years after the authorization, they are traveling about the country taking notes on construction ideas. One would imagine that they would have their plans worked out and ready to execute when they get their appropriations.

One wonders also about the superior record of execution of one department over another in the state service. The naked eye suggests, for example, that the University of Wisconsin and the state colleges have a better record in this regard than some other agencies. They know what they want, and know how to proceed to build what they want when they get the

Mr. Nusbaum, the commissioner of administration in the state government, recently boasted to the legislature that the building program is now functioning more expeditiously and efficiently.

It is about time. There really was only one direction in which the program could go. Any slower pace might have brought about a legislative revolt.

Better Public Health Services

A strong effort is being made by persons interested in better public health facilities to bring about the adoption of two measures now before the legislature with approval of the legislative council. One of these bills, the second to be offered in the State Senate this year, would require all counties without health departments or counties in which all areas are not served by qualified local health boards, to create a county health commission.

This commission would replace all town health hoards and officers and would have authority to act in all towns and in cities and villages which do not have a health commission or health officer. One effect would be to reduce the number of public health officers in the state from nearly 2,000 to approximately 300. The benefit would be that the 300 would be effective officers acting under a district health officer. The 1.800 to 2,000 health officers now in the state are largely civilians with no training whatsover in health work who do nothing other than bear the title of health officer in a small community.

ments of local government units shall be financed on a percentage basis by participating municipalities. It would repeal a provision which prohibits levying of any costs of county health departments against the property of a town, village or city maintaining a full time health department. The principal purpose of the two measures is to rewrite the state health law to insure every community in the state of adequate advice on public health matters. The people of Wisconsin, through the State Board of Health, have been provided with excellent health service in the areas where local boards are established to use the expert advice of the state board.

The proposed laws will, if adopted, set up workable organizations in all areas of the state so that the benefits of modern public health measures may be enjoyed by all. Most cities have the facilities they need but their work may at times be made ineffective because of the close contact between cities and rural areas in this modern age. Consequently, the proposed legislation is of interest to all and should have the full support of all legislators whether they represent cities or rural areas.

The second measure, also a Senate bill, would provide that joint health depart-

Labor Fight Danger From The St. Louis Globe-Democrat

So far, this recession is a relatively mild slump that the economy normally would shake off, just as it shook off the other post-war business slowdowns. But a knock-down and drag-out battle between labor and management at this stage of the game could knock the economy into a cocked bat.

Commission on Aging About to be Born

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

What they mean is that there is a public problem involving some political pressure, they are at their wits end about what to do about it, and they have written a verbose bill with an appealing title in the hope that the pressure will be satisfied.

Almost a model of the genus is the current proposition before the legislature for a state commission on the aging.

The problems of the aging are fashionable subjects today. Suddenly it is discovered that many persons are old, that many more are growing older. Nobody is sure what can be done about it. But a lot of people want something done, or want the pretense that something is being done.

HOW IT GOES

This commission would have an office, an executive secretary at a fancy salary, a couple of clerks, and an advisory commission that would collect fees for coming to Madison periodically.

That secretary will have one of the cushiest jobs in the statehouse system. For the bill gives him nothing specific to do. His advisory commission will come to Madison and look solemn, repeat what the bureaucrats have testified, write tedious reports, and satisfy itself that it has done semething important.

As it happens, there are plentiful precedents for these commissions. One set up only two years ago covers the subject of mental hygiene which, like the aging matter, is an extremely popular subject today. The mental health advisory commission has just filed its report, after reported nothing that any reamerely borrow from existing administrative services within the state government. The brutal fact is that these ments that are cropping up with increasing regularity are propaganda prefaces for the political action programs to come.

The mental health advisory commission will be a sounding board, inevitably, for a variety of enlargements and extensions in the field of mental health services. They may be needed: they may be imperative. But the observant citizen would be more impressed if such proposals sprang from the legitimate and spontaneous will of the electorate, instead of out of the publicity efforts of office-holders financing their work out of tax

The same results can be expected from the commission on the aging, which will be approved almost surely. Who is there who will vote against something that sounds so benevolent, and doesn't cost muchat least not yet?

One wonders whether Uncle Charlie cares very much.

He is getting old. He has aches and pains. He has been retired from his job. He finds retirement a difficult adjustment. Some days he is cranky. In an age when the government is expected to have a solution for all human ills, it may be that he will remember the men who sponsored this bill to study his problems and to report on them to future legislatures.

But it may also be that Charlie is smarter than these political cynics know. He may be perfectly aware that a new letterhead for a new agency in Madison will do nothing to enhance his happiness, and it may even cost him a bit more in dues to the state treasury which has been showing an increasingly greedy interest in his purse late-

REAL ESTATE WHERE DOES IT ALL GO?

At income tax paying time when the Federal and State governments take a big bite out of everyone's hard earned income, we ask the question, "where does all that money

The heavy tax costs leave a smaller margin than should be the case for business and personal purposes.

The limited margins left because of high government costs has made it necessary for individuals and corporations to hedge against every possible hazard through the medium of insurance. Without adequate insurance protection, a large loss would leave no margin at all.

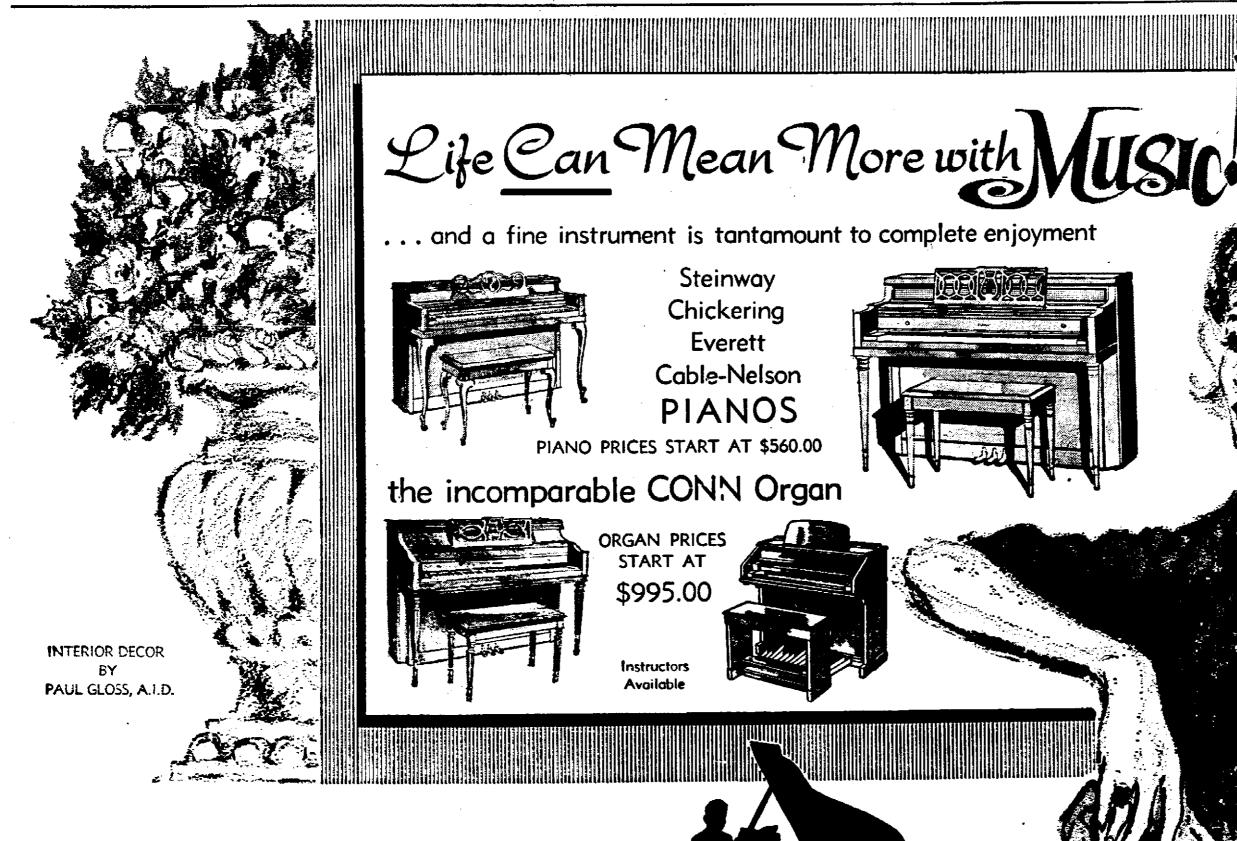

As in other types of businesses, new and improved package policies have been designed to give the most coverage at the least cost to you.

Are We Ready for Space Adventures?

President Kennedy's message of congratulation to Premier Khrushchev and the Russian people on the astronaut's flight into space and safe return had the sound of sincerity. No less sincere was his message to the American people when he said that he did not regard the Western world as weak in comparison. As the President said the democratic system is more durable and its job is to maintain its strength until its basic advantages have a chance to function.

There are still many questions to be answered about the Russian exploit before we can weigh it and determine its exact meaning Likewise we may want to assess our own position in the light of this new breakthrough into unknown areas of space. Do we have the vision to accompany this delying into still more remote

The Russians made a plea for world peace and disarmament along with the announcement of the successful flight We know that as far as their leaders are concerned the words mean nothing. The danger is not so much the tremendous weapon power of the Soviet Union or the millions of aimed men it can call up. The real threat is the Communist system itself and its efforts to turn man into nothing more than a robot answering controlled signals as does the metal satellite. using his intellect for the betterment of the all-powerful State, stifling down into nothingness the needs and demands of the heart and the soul

Have we in the western world particularly in the United States the vision of man's real purpose on earth and the courage to maintain and fight for it? Are we, as Admiral Arleigh Burke recently suggested, "so self-satisfied, so comfortable, so content that we cannot be bothered with the dangers which surround us?" Or are many of us so fearful of the bomb that we can repeat Bertrand Russell's euphonious, despicable chant that we would "rather be Red than dead?"

In The Hyphenated Family Hermann Hagedorn wrote "America today is the fulfillment of the dreams of the prophets and seers of a hundred generations, or it is the cynical toss of that dream into the ash can of history America is the creative response to the hunger of mankind for hope, self-respect and brotherhood, or it is earth's final disillusionment, its ultimate object of derision and hate standing bleak and alone, against the blaze of thermonuclear fire

"Is it conceivable that the Mind that sets the stars in the cycles and has given to man the capacity to set stars of His own into orbit, should give a people so compelling a dream, lay upon them so heavy a responsibility, and not give them also the faith, the vision, the courage, the will and the stamina - in a word the greatness — triumphantly to carry the burden and make the dream come true""

This is the real challenge of the Soviet launching A man, whirling in darkness in the prison of a metal capsule and his allegiance to a regime of terror and despair is not the kind of space launching we want. We shall put a man into space in the practical sense But the really important purpose of our nation must be to rekindle or keep alight the beacon of hope and human dignity and triumph to shine to the rest of the world as we know it today and into the black spaces beyond.

Pay for Public Service

There may be a great many people in Wisconsin who believe that municipalities would be better served if some public officials received no pay or, at most, nominal per diem payments and expenses

Apparently, however, there are very few people of this opinion in the state legislature Mayor A. B Rewald of Burlington a contractor who was elected to office last April wanted to serve without pay but has not been permitted to do so He recently had a bill introduced in the legislature to allow mayors and aldermen to take voluntary salary cuts but the state assembly has turned him down and he will have to go on receiving his $900 a year salary Up to now he has refused the check but has been told that under state law he would have to accept the money and pay taxes on it and that the money cannot go back to the city's general fund

Mayor Rewald's proposal raised a considerable rumpus in the Assembly where salary is a rather sensitive subject and where politicians have a sharp eye out for anyone who might start something' in

Assemblyman Hillemann D - Sheboygan, expressed the common fear of the assemblymen when he said that such a bill would permit public officials to bargain away their salary in an appeal for votes Further he said such a bill would discourage persons of low income from seeking public office and would tend to 'undermine local government" This opinion was accepted quite generally during the Assembly debate and the debaters quite generally recognized that it would be unpleasant for them in the future perhaps to be campaigning against opponents who were promising to go without salaries in the event of their election. The assemplymen could see that such a thing might be contagious and they certainly wanted no part of it Assemblyman Stalbaum R - Waterford, the author of the bill, offered to amend it to exempt Milwaukee County In Milwaukee County recently there has been considerable turmoil over increase in salary which the county board members and aldermen recently voted for themselves But the assembly men recognized this proposal for the joke that it was and decided to exempt the entire state Mayor Rewald will have to accept his pay whether he wants it or not, and the salaries of all public officials in Wisconsin have now been protected against price cutting on the political stump.

.The Best of AMERICAN HERITAGE-Nation Prepares for Civil War

BY JOSEPH L. GARDNER

The surrender of Fort Sumter, on April 13, 1861, marked the sudden, frightening transition from peace to war. It was a war neither North nor South wanted and one for which both were equally unprepared. Two days after the Rebels

PREPARING FOR WAR

The Civil War was underway before anyone was ready to fight Then came the frenzy of whipping some sort of armies into shape, out of the raw maternal of thousands of individuals who knew nothing about warfare. There was plenty of romantic illusion about the battles to come, but very little preparedness This is the story of those early days of frantic activity.

State Planning Water Use Control

Conservation Department Team Working Out Model Arrangement

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON - Slowly and with a cautious awareness of the political perils involved, the state conservation department is working out a system of regulating the use of recreational waters in a time of heavily increased water sports activity.

Following out a legislative directive of 1959 adopted at the insistence of Gov. Gaylord Nelson, a conservation department task force is evolving a proposed model rule for lake use classification for public discussion purposes.

Ten Rules for Foot Health Are Offered

Put Legs on Desk, Wiggle Your Toes, Suggests Institute

Poor foot health habits can cause more physical and emotional distress than most persons realize. Realizing the importance of proper foot care, the National Shoe Institute offers the following ten rules for foot health:

1. Bathe your feet at least once a day The perfect foot bath requires foot soap, and foot powder for drying. When your feet are tired, stimulate them by immersing them alternately in hot and cold water. A vigorous massage with a rough towel is good.

2 Cut the toe nails straight across and not shorter than the end of the toes

3. Toe wiggling, arch stretching and slow ankle rotating exercises are good 4 Putting your feet up on a table, a desk or a hassock - anything about two feet above the floor - is recommended Keep the feet crossed or which the arches facing each other 5 Change shoes and hosiery at least once a day Women should not wear high heels continuously Shoes are designed for different purposes. Use the correct shoe for the right purpose

6 Take the greatest care in fitting your shoes. Do not depend on size and number but have them fitted every time you buy new shoes. Since the feet tend to contract while you sleep, it is best not to fit and buy shoes the first thing in the morning.

7 President John F. Kennedy said that we ride too much, walk too little. Walk erect and correctly. Walk naturally and briskly. Do 8 Don't be a bathroom surgeon.

1961 Teenagers Have Own Look

Definite Ideas, High Spending Influence Fashion Industry

Teenagers, circa 1961, have evolved a fashion look all their own. There's nothing bizarre or sloppy-joe about it From the little hats they sometimes wear with city clothes to the shoes they buy (and they buy more shoes, for the busy lives they lead, than anybody else in America), teenagers walk off with a smooth, young look that's unparalleled anywhere in the world.

Pecause of definite fashion ideas and because they spend about $10 billion a year expressing those ideas, tecnagers have influenced the entire fashion industry.

National Shoe Institute points out that there's never been a wider, smarter choice of young shoes than there is this spring and sum mer. The big picture A slender. sculptured look, with more pointy toes for both day and evening. more interesting heel shapes for both flats and little heels

For daytime, a teenager might choose one of the smooth, highrising, citified flats. These turn up in brilliant shock colors such as geramum pinks, strawberry reds nasturtuum oranges.

A teenager will look for stacked leather heels, perhaps in a low conical or cowboy shape. She'll also look for neat geometric detailing, for glove leathers, precisely perforated, and for the trimness of a squared throat and toe line

For even more casual shoes, she might fall back upon the classicby-now patch saddle, done up for spring in lighter colors. Straw flats turn up with big pompoms of straw and cork. Patchwork gingham flats are gay with pinked gingham

Flat or little-heeled date shoes may have delicate Louis heels There are creamy luster leathers, pastel ginghams and cotton tapestry prints for little pumps.

Bill Introduced to Hike Wages of 16,000 Employes of State

MADISON (AP)-A six per cent across the board salary increase for Wisconsin's 16,000 state employes would be provided under terms of a bill introduced in the

The proposal was offered at the request of the Wisconsin State Employes Association. Suggested pay increases would become effective July 1.

Cost of the proposal would total $9,411,048, of which $5,696,885 would be charged to the executive budget and $3,714,163 to revolving and segregated funds.

The committee on Governmental and Veterans' Affairs introduced the bill at the request of the or pioyes greep.

Director Jack E. Frisch and His UW Fox Valley Center Players will present their first three act play, Pirandello's "Six Characters in Search of an Author," at 8 pm Friday and Saturday at the university center. Here, in a rehearsal scene, three of the authorless characters right try to convince Director Ronald Fuss, Neenah, into staging their play, while the fourth Donald Reichel, Neenah, turns his back on the whole idea. Enacting the players within the play are Reichel as the son, Mrs. Daniel Welbes, Appleton, seated, as the mother, Mrs. Ronald Pfeiffer and James Mackesy, both of Appleton, in the roles of the step-daughter and father.

Giving a Play at the UW Fox Valley Center involves a bit of ingenious can outlage since the only auditorium in the place is the science lecture hall with its fixtured sink right in the middle of the one area available for staging. Above left, student Baibara Lynch turns her creative talents to making papier mache figures to fit over the two faucets with the one she's working on ready for draping. At the right three student crewmen prepare scenery for the Pirandello play. In the background Roland Kuehnl Appleton, paints flowers on the background setting while David Sewall, Menasha, and James Yeakey, Appleton, fix up the stage fountain for the make believe garden.

Cite Achievements Of Traverse Teams In Antarctica

MADISON - "Testimonial to the planning and determination of American scientist" was the tribute the U S Defense Department paid to University of Wisconsin achievement for the second of two UW overland traverse teams in Antartica which reached its goal

The six man geophysics team led by Dr. Charles Bentley of the UW Geophysics and Polar Research Center, was reported by the Navy to have reached its jour ney's end on the Eights Coast of the Bellingshausen Sea on Feb 10 after a three month 1 200-mile overland trek which began in No vember

Bentley thereby became a vet eran of four Antarctic traverses The crew included two other UW men-Perry F Parks Jr, explor ation geophysicist and George Widich traverse engineer Began Dec 10

On Feb 12 the eight man over land traverse group led by Dr. Al. bert P Crary chief scientist for the National Science Foundation Antarctic research program had reached the South Pole after an other 1 200-mile trip which began Dec 10 at McMurdo Sound This team included UW men Edwin S Robinson geophysicist Hugh Bennett sei mologist and Ralph E Ash and Jack Long traverse engineers For Dr Crary the event placed him in that rare company of two or three men who have set foot on both North and South Poles

The University of Wisconsin has full responsibility for admin istering all ove land traverse efforts in the Antarctic under a one half million dollar NFS grant Both the Bentley and Crary parties, taking gravity magnetic field and seismic readings were kathering information on how the frozen continent would look if the ice were removed

The Navy report that Bentley and his men had reached their goal by tractor Snocats travel ing a zigzag course over the snowy plains of Marie Byrd Land to the Sentinel Mountains the Hudson Mountains and finally to the Eights Coast included the news that Bentley was well pleased with the work accomplished Among other things it revealed that the surface features of the land mass beneath the ice in the area between the Beiling hausen and Ross Seas is far more complicated than was for merly thought

Bearded Men

'The-tractors were stopped at 73 degrees, 29 minutes south 94 degrees, 24 minutes west. The tanned and bearded men had come to the foot of the peaks and the now deserted camp earlier occupied by a University of Minnesota geological field party A message of welcome had been left in the Camp Minnesota hut by the geologists A more personal welcome was extended to the triumphant Wisconsin party, the report continues by the deputy commander of a Navy Operation Deep Freeze ice breaking expedition in the Bellingshausen Sea Capt Edwin McDonald dispatched a helicopter to pick up the traverse leader The captain and the Wisconsin scientist enjoyed dinner together on board the Glacier, then Bentley was flown back to camp

The Wisconsin team was sched uled to return by pickup in Navy planes to the McMurdo base via Byrd Station Their three Snocats and sled-mounted huts will be em ployed in 1962 by a traverse which will begin at the Eights

Whereabouts of Russian Venus Rocket Unknown

MOSCOW (AP) - No one knows where the Soviet Venus rocket is now and whether contact. will be established with it again. The Venusnik blasted off Feb 12 on what the Russians promised would be a history making flight to the cloud shrouded planet There was a blaze of publicity and loud praise the space traveler disappeared into silence on Feb 27 in the words of poet T. S. Eliot i not with a bang but a whimper and a well burned one at that

When the announcement was fi nally made March 3 Pravda's top headline on the story was The automatic interplanetary station continues on its flight to Venus Only those who read to the final paragraph learned that something had gone wrong and contact had been lost

Since then the only words about the Venusnik in the Soviet press appeared the following Sunday, when magazines came out with laudatory articles which apparent ly were already in type Tass the Soviet news agency had said that the scientists would try to re-establish radio contact and also make visual observations. There has been no word that they have made any progress

Head of U. S. Team at Geneva Talks Now To Face Soviet Reds

By BARRY SCHWEID

WASHINGTON (AP) - Athur Hobson Dean, who will head the 11 S negotiating team in Geneva next week is an old hand at bat gaining with Communists

He has haggled with them in a seemingly endless struggle to find a middle ground. He has stalked off when he thought the talks were getting nowhere and the Communists were getting insulting

Dean, 61, a lawyer, did both in late 1953 in Panmunjom, Korea He served seven weeks there as L S ambassador to planning discussions on a Korean peace conference

Psychological War

He came away with this impression of the Communist North Korean and Chinese negotiators (The Communists have been using the negotiations as a forum for their propaganda Its all part of their psychological war. They msult you all day long "

When the long drawn out talks on a nuclear test ban resume Tuesday, Dean will be dealing this time with Soviet Communists He has been instructed to keep talking as long as the negotiations show the progress needed to reach an agreement To arrive at one, Dean said

"We are going to use all of our powers of ingenuity and persua-Dean has dealt not only with

In Geneva Before

In 1958 and again last year this specialist in international and corporate law headed U.S. delegations to Geneva conferences on the law of the sca. Each conference was attended by 80 odd na

Associates found Dean a force ful speaker whose statements were cast in popular phrases rather than in legalistic terminology A man who was to travel far afield in his later years. Dean went to school and worked at his tust jobs in his hometown. Ithaca-NY where he was born Oct 16 1898 He studied at the Ithaca High School and then at Cornell University in Itilaca helping to meet college expenses by weik ing as a night clerk at a notel and as a bookkeeper in a bank In World War I

He interrupted his studies with Navy service in World War I returning to the university after the armistice for his bachelor's and law degree

Admitted to the New York bar m) 1923 he joined Sullivan & Cromwell a New York City tirm of which the late Secretary of State John Foster Dulles was a partner When Dulles became a U.S. senator in 1949. Dean succeeded him as the senior partner An associate of Dean has said

His only hobby so far as I know is the law. He showed his dedication to if at Geneval putting in long hours seven days a week and evidently enjoying it. He also spent quite a bit of his own mon ev to entertain delegates in a manner he thought befitting the I nited States

Charter No. 1602 - Established 1861

Neenah, Wisconsin

Telephone Parkway 2-3301

Dear Friends:

All of us here at The First National Bank of Neenah take this means of publicly thanking our friends for their help and understanding last Friday evening when our banking activities were conducted under difficulties. The patience and good humor that was expressed on every side will long be remembered.

It is hard to find words to express our appreciation to Chief Zick and the Neenah Fire Department. In addition to quickly approising the seriousness of the situation, the men took every precaution to protect our machines and fixtures from chemical and water damage. It was this careful and painstaking work that saved our equipment from any kind of damage and enabled us to operate our bookkeeping department Monday morning in the normal course of business. Chief Stilp and the Neenah Police Department also were right on the job and worked closely with the Fire Department. To them our sincere thanks. The assistance extended by the Menasha Fire Department is very much appreciated. We also thank the carpenters and electricians who were on the job as soon as conditions permitted and who worked far into the night ...

Many offers of help and assistance came to us while the fire was being brought under control and we are grateful for those expressions of good will. We especially thank the banks of the Twin Cities and Appleton. Kimberly-Clark Corporation and Appleton Machine Company, all of whom offered to loan us bookkeeping equipment or other kinds of assistance, and the representatives of National Cash Register Company, Burroughs Adding Machine Company, International Business Machines, Pitney Bowes, Inc., and Valley Business Equipment Co. who promptly appeared and serviced our machines. And thanks to W.N.A.M. for keeping the public informed that the bank was open and doing business as usual.

We have reason to be proud of the conduct of our bank personnel. The bookkeeping department, staffed entirely with young ladies, acted promptly to protect the books and records. The staff in our main lobby remained at their posts until they were asked to leave for a short time to clear the labby of smake. To all of them we express our appreciation.

And to our friend and customer who called in, hopefully, to inquire as to whether his mortgage had burned up, we report that it is safe and sound, with all of the others, in one of our three fire-proof (now proven) vaults.

The Smartest Man In Town

There's something about this native son of the Twin Cities. He makes thousands of calls on Neenah-Menasha homes every morning, often before his hosts are up, yet never loses the well-mannered, wellinformed air which makes him so very welcome.

Look to him for almost any answer to the every-day question "What's new?" He really knows. Whether its about the score of last night's ball game, what happened at the City Council, or who was involved in that accident at the corner of Commercial and Cecil street.

His reason for knowing is no accident. Dozens of people take special pains to keep him informed on the very latest developments.

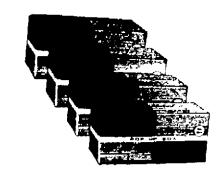

Because his greatest satisfaction comes from telling "a good story", his visits are looked forward to by every member of the family.

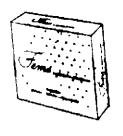

There's no one else quite like him for Twin Cities people. He's today's news, tomorrow's hopes and next year's references . . . he's
